

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a communication device, since various pilot switches for detecting the movement of an antenna in respective directions are provided and then the operation for moving appropriately the antenna is executed, the information can be selected easily and thus a series of operations concerning the communication can be simplified.